

Old Dun Cow

Harry Wincott

♩ = 90

Am

G

Am

Some friends and i in a pub - lic house were playing do - mi - noes one night.

G

F

E

F

E

In - to the room the bar - man came his face all chal - ky white. "What's up?" Says Brown "Have you seen a ghost, have you seen your aunt Ma - ri - ah?" "Oh my aunt Ma - ri - ah be buggered!" Said he, "The bloo - dy pub's on fire!" "On fire!" Says Brown "What a bit of luck eve - ry - bo - dy fol - low me.

Am

G

E

Am

G

Am

G

F

E

F

E

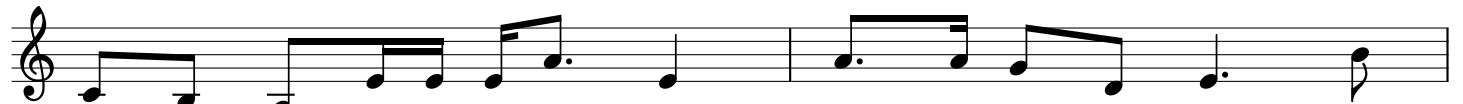

Down to the cel - lar if the fire's not there we'll have a rare old spree." So we all went down af - ter good old Brown. Booze we could not miss. And we weren't there five mi - nutes or more, till we were all half pissed. And there was Brown up - side down lic - kin' up the whis - key of the floor.

Am

G

E

Am

G

Am

G

F

E

F

E

"Booze, booze!" The fire - men cried as they came knocking at the door. knock knock "Don't let them in till it's all mopped up." Some - bo - dy shou - ted "Mac - In - tyre!" Mac - In - tyre! And we Zpomalovat

22 Am G E

24 Am G Am F E Am
 all got blue blind pa - ra - ly - tic drunk when the Old Dun Cow caught fire. Then Noty v závorce po poslední sloce

27 Am G Am
 Smith went o - ver to the port wine tub gave it a few hard knocks. knock knock

29 G F E F E
 Star - ted ta - kin' of his pan - ta loons like wise his shoes and socks. "Hold

31 Am G E
 on!" Says Brown. "We can't have that. You can't do that in here. "Don't go

33 Am G Am F E F E
 wash - in' your trot - ters in the port wine tub when we've got all this lite beer." And Zpomalovat

35 Am G Am
 then there came to the old back door the vi - car of our lo - cal church. And

37 G F E F F
 when he had seen our drun - ken ways he be - gan to scream and curse. "You

39 Am G E
 drun - ken sods, you hea - then clods! You've ta - ken to a drun - ken spree. And you

41 Am G Am F E F E CH.
 drank up all that Be - ne dic - tine bran - dy and you di - dn't save a drop for me!" And

43 Am G Am
 Just then there came an aw - ful crash. Half the bloo - dy roof gave way.

